Measurable Learning Objectives:

- 1) Attendees will be able to explain the benefits of self-reflection and self-compassion in finding right relationship with a client;
- 2) Instructor will demonstrate the benefits of using the SoulCollage® method to understand attendees' motivations and ethical vulnerabilities; and
- 3) Attendees will be able to utilize the InnerEthics® Chart of Ethical Vulnerabilities to identify their own motivations in an interaction with a client.

Procedures:

- 1) Through lecture and discussion, the instructor will review ethical principles (such as scope of competence, scope of practice, safety, conflict of interest, non-exploitation of clients, and dual relationship) and learn to apply these principles to work with clients who are in profound states of consciousness (grief, loss, trauma, and intentional deep work such as regression, breathwork, hypnosis, etc.)

2) Through compassionate self-inquiry and discussion of vignettes, participants will discover how to identify their own motivations, before, during, and after making interventions with clients, in order to prevent affliction and enhance well being for client, self, and others in the client's network.

3) Through demonstration and experiential application, participants will learn the value of images and the SoulCollage® method for metabolizing deep experiences through identification and acceptance of thoughts, feelings, intuitions, and sensations.

4) Through lecture and discussion of vignettes pertaining to ethical challenges in the areas of money, sex, and power, especially when working in the compelling nature of profound states of consciousness, participants will discover how to identify their own motivations regarding money, sex, and power and spiritual longings and choose actions which are in the best interests of their clients.
