TRANSFORMING GENDER RELATIONS

A six-day workshop with Will Keepin and Molly Dwyer with Holotropic Breathwork sessions led by Diane Haug, GTT senior staff

Satyana's Gender Reconciliation process is a unique experiential practice, bringing together women and men committed to healing gender disharmony in our culture and bringing forth new dimensions of mutual respect and authentic intimacy. Those in the Holotropic community who have done this work are deeply moved by the depth and power of their experiences. The Gender work is woven with Holotropic Breathwork into a tapestry of safety, trust, sensitivity and respect for the sacred in ourselves and in each other. It incorporates universal spiritual principles and practices into the dynamics of gender difference and healing, and additionally offers the vision that restoring balance between male and female is not merely a noble social goal, but an evolutionary imperative for the human species.

This special event is part of the GTT training and is also open to non-training participants who wish to experience two powerful practices in one event. No prior experience of Holotropic Breathwork is needed.

Gender work will be interwoven throughout the week with four Holotropic Breathwork sessions, plus art, music, dancing, & integration.

May 12-17, 2002, at the Columbine Inn Conference Center, Taos Ski Valley, NM

The Experience of Death and Dying

A six-day workshop with Stanislav Grof, M.D. and GTT Staff

The Experience of Death and Dying: Psychological, Philosophical, and Spiritual Aspects

For the first two days, Stan Grof will explore with the group observations from various areas of modern consciousness research. Thanatology, anthropological shamanic studies, psychedelic research, experiential psychotherapies, and work with people in psychospiritual crisis (spiritual emergencies) all have important implications for understanding the psychospiritual aspects of death and dying.

Focus will be on such topics as the process of psychological death and rebirth, psychedelic therapy with terminal cancer patients, the shamanic initiatory crisis, aboriginal rites of passage, ancient mysteries of death and rebirth, near-death experiences, survival of consciousness after death, instrumental transcommunication, karma and reincarnation, and eschatological mythologies.

Using a cross-cultural selection of slides, Stan will explore the ancient books of the dead—the Egyptian Pert em Hru, Tibetan Bardo Thödol, the Mayan Ceramic Codex, the Aztec Codex Borgia, and the European Ars Moriendi.

Following Stan's two days of teaching, the rest of the workshop will be led by a senior GTT teacher and other staff members. The workshop includes four Holotropic Breathwork sessions, as well as art, music, dancing, & integration. This special event is part of the GTT training and is also open to non-training participants. No prior experience of Holotropic Breathwork is needed.

August 20-25, 2002, at the Columbine Inn Conference Center, Taos Ski Valley, NM.

$1125 double, or $1325 single, includes five nights lodging in very comfortable rooms & catered meals.

Stanislav Grof, M.D., is a psychiatrist with nearly forty years of experience researching non-ordinary states of consciousness. He was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he also received his scientific training. His professional career includes seven years as Assistant Professor at the Johns Hopkins University, and Chief of Psychiatric Research at the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center, as well as fourteen years as Scholar-in-Residence at the Esalen Institute. He is one of the founders and chief theoreticians of transpersonal psychology and a founder of the International Transpersonal Association. Among his publications are over 100 articles in professional journals and the books Psychology of the Future; The Cosmic Game; The Adventure of Self-Discovery; Beyond the Brain; Realms of the Human Unconscious; The Human Encounter with Death; LSD Psychotherapy; Beyond Death; and The Stormy Search for the Self (the last two with Christina Grof).

LINDA KOHANOV

author of THE TAO OF EQUUS

Monday October 6, Noon to 8:00 pm

at the lovely Institute of Noetic Sciences Campus

just off Hwy 101 at Marin/Sonoma border

DEEP PEACE: Building Authentic Community through the Way of the Horse

Horses model a cooperative, non-predatory way of being capable of tempering the destructive aspects of human nature. The simple act of grooming or riding one of these animals has been shown to lower blood pressure and put people in a state of relaxed heightened awareness conducive to creativity and intuition. Yet it is the equine talent for teaching the art of "freedom through relationship" that may very well be the horse's greatest gift to us at the dawn of the 21st century. In helping people reconnect to nature, to the authentic self, to ancestral wisdom, to the herd, and to the community, horses teach a form of consensual liberation unavailable to the "lone wolf," social outcast or rugged individualist.

Through entertaining lecture segments, experiential activities, and group process work, Linda shares the emotional fitness, non-verbal communication, energy management, and authentic community building skills she learned directly from her horses, techniques that are now used outside the riding arena by educators, psychiatrists, counselors, parents, caretakers, and even emergency room physicians.

This workshop is appropriate for anyone seeking innovative solutions to the challenges inherent in relationship. Participants will take home practical techniques for relating to family members, friends, students, clients, and colleagues, as well as to people perceived as hostile or uncooperative.

Linda Kohanov is an author, speaker, riding instructor and horse trainer who specializes in equine experiential learning and equine-facilitated psychotherapy. In 1997, she founded Epona Equestrian Services, a Tucson-based collective of horse professionals, counselors, and expressive arts specialists. Her book The Tao of Equus: A Woman's Journey of Healing and Transformation through the Way of the Horse was selected as one of the Top Ten Religion and Spirituality books of 2001 by Amazon.com, and has received appreciative reviews in publications as diverse as Horse and Rider, Natural Horse, IONS Noetic Sciences Review, and Strides. Her new book Riding Between the Worlds: Expanding Our Potential through the Way of the Horse will be published in fall 2003.
