

spiritual resources and is obsessed by the pursuit of material values. From this perspective, addiction is a significant factor in the current global crisis and finding ways of transforming it might be critical for human survival. The focus of the conference will thus extend far beyond a narrow understanding of addiction as pathology and will explore the possibility of viewing it as a form of spiritual emergency, both individual and planetary.

We are very excited about the upcoming conference and believe that it will be a fascinating and important event. We invite all of you who share this vision to come and explore it with us intellectually and experientially. It will be an opportunity to reconnect with friends from the past and meet many new ones.

FOCUS

PRE- AND POST CONFERENCE

Special pre- and post conference workshops will be held as separate events on the two weekends adjacent to the conference. These will provide participants an opportunity to explore at greater depth specific topics on addiction and the spiritual quest, as well as transpersonal psychology. Among the pre-conference workshops will be Stanislav and Christina Grof's The Adventure of Self-Discovery: A Holotropic Breathwork Experience. Anne and Jim Armstrong's Intuition, Addiction, and The Spiritual Path and Chungliang Al Huang's Follow Your Bliss: Mythbody to Live By. Among the post Conference workshops will be Charles Whitfield's Healing the Child Within. The schedule of the remaining workshops has not been finalized; for the final list, please contact the Conference Coordinator.

The program of the conference combines lectures, experiential seminars, films, videotapes, art, and rituals, focusing specifically on spiritual and transformational aspects of addiction. We will explore such issues as:
